SYNOPSIS

Country bumpkin Timuchin (Timur Baktybayev) comes to the city to enroll in the police academy. There he is pranked by a lovely young woman who eventually cottons to his courtship. When they run afoul of local gangsters his Dudley Do-Right persona and studied obsession with martial arts send him on a bare-fisted mission to thwart the baddies and rescue his damsel in distress. This inspired homage to Jackie Chan by way of urban Kazakhstan is a boisterous rollercoaster ride of old school action movie thrills, spills and other hilarious antics.

Created as a tribute to Jackie Chan by Timur Baktybayev, who conceived the idea, produced the film, and plays the main character, Timuchin. The story follows the general plot of Rumble in the Bronx, the 1995 American-Hong Kong action comedy directed by Stanley Tong and recreates many of the fight scenes from that film and other Jackie Chan classics.
